HOUSING AND CARE FOR OLDER PEOPLE

Housing for people with dementia - are we ready?

A report from an Inquiry by the APPG on Housing and Care for Older People

This Report was researched by Katey Twyford and Jeremy Porteus, Housing LIN, and funded by Anchor Hanover

February 2021

Disclaimer: This is not an official publication of any Member of Parliament or the House of Lords. It has not been approved by either House or its committees. All Party Parliamentary Groups are informal groups of Members of both Houses, with the common interest in particular issues. The views expressed in this report are those of the group.

What we did:

1. Decided the column headings
2. Found the relevant content
3. Ensured external content was moderated
4. Created space for feedback
5. Piloted and tested with people with dementia
6. Responded to this feedback

Why did we do it?

Recommendation 34 of the APPG Report:

“...providers of housing...should consider the design and adaptability of their homes to meet the needs of those living with dementia”

Housing for People with Dementia

1 in 3 of today's new borns will live to see their 100th birthday^[1]

The number of people living with dementia is set to increase from an estimated 57 million in 2019 to 153 million by 2050^[2]

The Dementia and Housing Working Group (DHWG) aims to promote and encourage the housing sector to improve the health, wellbeing and quality of life for people living with dementia.

The DHWG has support from a range of organisations and institutions with an interest in dementia and housing. These include several housing associations, universities, architects and Government departments.

What have we been up to?

At the UK Dementia Congress in 2020, DHWG presented an Integrated Care Model, demonstrating how important it is to recognise how design and digital technology can support those with dementia.

We have now created a 'Design and Technology' sub-group which is developing a strategy for easy access to dementia-friendly design, technology and information. This aims to support the delivery of Recommendation 34 of the All Party Parliamentary Group (APPG) Report: 'Housing for People with Dementia – Are We Ready?' (see below).
