

New models of care and support – integrating with health

Andrew van Doorn OBE
Chief Executive

Integrating health and housing

A new health and social care landscape

Integrated Care Systems, Boards and Partnerships

Place-based partnerships

Primary Care Networks

Population Health Management

Health Inequalities

Anchor Institutions

Health creation in neighbourhoods

Social Prescribing

General needs housing and community investment

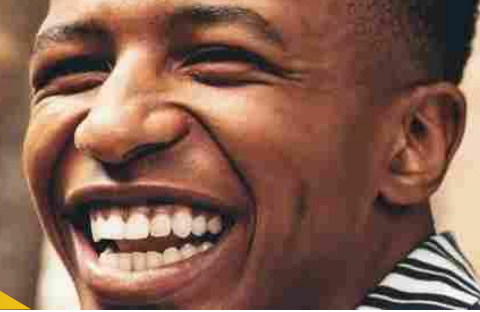

Specialist and supported housing

Community-led housing

Amplifying voices

Supporting collaboration and community development

Complex Care

Housing as a central part of community living

Specialist housing still in high demand

Housing as a core part of all community pathways

Clinical integration a key challenge, and opportunity, for managing enhanced risk

Technology that enhances lives

Provider-led innovation, co-design and commissioning

Provider Collaboratives with housing partners

Role of mainstream social landlords

Social & economic development

Specialist and supported housing as Anchor Institutions

Anchor Institutions are asset-based, long-term organisations rooted in place

Health inequalities and poverty

Shared workforce challenges and opportunities

Decarbonisation and Net-zero

Anchor Networks

Our offer to health

Working as part of an integrated system

As housing care and support professionals and organisations we bring:

- Clinical Expertise
- Collaborators
- Advocates
- Communicators
- Scholars

Contact us

For more information contact:

Andrew van Doorn OBE

andrew.vandoorn@hact.org.uk